Eligibility:

Any organization in Barbour County, WV can be nominated for the Emergency and Crisis Management Exemplary Community Award. The organization must have an active emergency plan that covers the following criteria:

Emergency Management – The Emergency Management Framework includes all activities and risk management measures related to prevention and mitigation, preparedness, response and recovery.

Prevention and Mitigation – to adapt to, eliminate, or reduce the risks of disasters in order to protect lives, property, the environment, and reduce economic disruption.

Preparedness – to be ready to respond to a disaster and manage its consequences through measures taken prior to an event, for example emergency response plans, mutual assistance agreements, resource inventories and training, public awareness activities, equipment and exercise programs.

Response – to act during, immediately before or after a disaster to manage its consequences through, for example, emergency public communication, search and rescue, emergency medical assistance and evacuation to minimize suffering and losses associated with disasters.

Recovery – to repair or restore conditions to an acceptable level through measures taken after a disaster, for example return of evacuees, trauma counseling, reconstruction, economic impact studies and financial assistance. Recovery efforts should be conducted with a view towards disaster risk reduction.
